+ Advantages

- You benefit directly from the development of the underlying. This means that in the case of a rising market, your potential gains are not capped.
- Index certificates are a cost-efficient form of investment.
- They are an easy way for you to diversify the risk.

! Risks you should be aware of

- Falling markets translate into losses for index certificates.
- An index certificate can never outperform the underlying.
- Redemption depends on the solvency of Erste Group Bank AG (default risk).
- This index certificate is not covered by any deposit guarantee scheme. Investors are exposed to the risk that Erste Group Bank AG may not be able to meet its obligations arising from the index certificate in the event of insolvency or over-indebtedness or from an official order (bail-in).

Index/Participation Certificates | Description

With an index certificate, you can directly benefit from the development of the underlying instrument. It allows you to diversify the risk, because you do not invest in one specific security, but in an index. This way your investment is not influenced by the fluctuations in one security, but by the combined development of all the securities contained in the index. Index certificates are issued at a certain exchange ratio relative to the underlying instrument. Most often they are traded at 1:100 or 1:10 to the index. The sales partner receives a one-time sales commission amounting to 0.70 % of the nominal value for the placement of securities (included in Ask price).

Secondary market

During the term it is possible to sell the product during the trading hours at the exchanges, where the product is listed.
